

Reconnecting Children with Nature - Growing Up WILD

This workshop leads you out the door, provides hands-on activities, and resource materials to guide your own nature explorations.

Growing up WILD is an early childhood education program that builds on children's sense of wonder and invites them to explore nature and the world around them. Through a wide range of developmentally-appropriate activities and experiences, Growing up WILD provides an early foundation for developing positive impressions about nature and lifelong social and academic skills.

All participants will receive the 128-page Growing Up WILD guide book and more!

This class offers four hours of DHS approved training credit under the CDA Content Area 2 (Steps to advance children's physical and intellectual development).

This workshop will be both inside and outdoors -- dress in layers, dress for the weather!

Saturday, April 28, 2012

8:30 am - 12:30 pm

Hamilton County Conservation @ Briggs Woods Park

2490 Briggs Woods Trail, Webster City, IA

No ($0) registration fee! Priority given to those working in Hamilton, Humboldt, and Wright County due to funding.

Minimum 15 participants needed!

Funded by Building Families

Registration Deadline: Tues., April 24, 2012

To register, go to:

<https://ccmis.dhs.state.ia.us/trainingregistry/>

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY
Extension and Outreach

